

Title IX Reporting

Every CSU employee is a mandated reporter for child abuse and neglect and also has a duty to report potential violations of Title IX. Situations involving harm, abuse or misconduct may also be reported to law enforcement or medical services, where and when applicable.

Get all resources and full guides at go.sjsu.edu/emergency

What is Title IX?

- Title IX is a federal statute that protects everyone at institutions of higher education from discrimination, harassment, violence and other forms of misconduct.
 - For more information and resources, visit sjsu.edu/titleixeo

Reporting a Title IX Incident

The Title IX and Equal Opportunity Office at SJSU encourages survivors of sexual assault, rape, dating/domestic violence, and stalking (collectively sexual misconduct) to get connected with free, confidential and secure supportive services on campus through professional staff.

Additional Supportive Resources

- SJSU's Confidential Survivor Advocate provides individual and group sessions for survivors of sexual violence, intimate partner violence, stalking & harassment.
 - For appointments, call (408) 924-7300 or email survivoradvocate@sjsu.edu
- Counseling & Psychological Services (CAPS) provides an alternative outlet to the Title IX and Gender Equity Office or law enforcement for students to discuss issues. Note that some situations, particularly threats to life, may legally require reporting to those offices.
 - Visit sjsu.edu/counseling for more information.
- YWCA Golden Gate Silicon Valley is a non-profit organization that can provide confidential support to survivors of sexual assault, dating/domestic violence, and human trafficking. The YWCA will not report information to the Title IX and Gender Equity Office or law enforcement without your consent. Note that threats to life or safety may be reported to local enforcement.
 - For more information about the YWCA, please visit yourwca.org